Environmental Conflict and Cooperation

Premise, Purpose, Persuasion, and Promise

James R. Lee

This book explores the evolution of environmental conflict as a field of research and the study of cooperation as an alternative to war. Utilizing a wide variety of case studies that range from ancient examples including conflict over the Cedars of Lebanon and the role of tin in the Peloponnesian Wars, to future-oriented scenarios including expanded island-building in the South China Sea and the global politics of geo-engineering, Lee highlights key concepts, metrics, and policy contexts that will test current understandings of the discipline. This book will draw specific interest from students and scholars of environmental conflict and cooperation, as well as researchers of environmental politics and security studies.
